Federal Court in Florida Declares the Patient and Affordable Care Act as Unconstitutional

Federal Court Judge Vinson in the U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Florida on January 31 declared the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act to be unconstitutional. The case, brought by 26 different states and a few interest groups and individuals, is the latest of the leading cases to be decided. This is the first case to find the entire act unconstitutional. Read this alert released by our legal experts affiliated with Benefits Advisors Network to learn more about the recent ruling.

A district judge finding a federal law this large to be unconstitutional is virtually unprecedented. In the coming days and weeks, judicial and legislative action will be taken.

For the time being, you are being advised NOT to do anything differently than you have been doing. As the situation further clarifies, we will advise you on the latest developments. For now, no quick decisions should be implemented.
